Ready to go live, line by line

Ready to go live lists everything that must be in place before your texts reach real phones.

Steps

1. Open Configure, then Ready to go live.
2. Each line shows a check when it is done and says what to do when it is not.
3. Fix each line, then come back. The list updates on its own.

Good to know

The lines you need are: a real company (not the demo), somebody who runs it can sign in, a number customers can call, the towns or zip codes you cover, at least one service with a price, at least one technician with working hours, card payments with Stripe, a card on file for your plan, and texting approved by the carriers. Two more are recommended: your opening hours, and your customers brought over.

When the carriers approve your texting and every needed line is done, texting turns on by itself. If a line is still missing then, finish it and ask Orshi to switch texting on.
